

ENGLISH

Majoring & Minorin

Major requirements ensure that majors are exposed to a broad range of issues and texts representative of the discipline.

The program in English provides grounding in English and American literature and film strong enough to support a life of continued reading and reflection, with the deepened understanding of human experience that this makes possible. It develops skills of interpretation, analysis, research and writing that are useful in a broad range of professional activities. Studying English at Southwestern means approaching storytelling as both art and action through a broadly conceived program of literary and cultural study that is always expanding to include new media and emerging narrative styles and traditions in comparative cultural and counter-cultural contexts.

Note on course numbering: 100-level courses are introductory. 200-level courses are methods courses. 300-level courses are creative writing or special topics courses. 400-level courses fulfill the Critical Theory requirement. 500-level courses focus on film studies. 600-level courses focus on British literature. 700-level courses focus on American literature. 800-level courses focus on emergent literatures. 900-level courses are capstone, tutorials, honors, internships, and independent study.
